SHOT WIFE, THEN KILLED HIMSELF.

Real Estate Agent Roeder a Suicide After He Failed to Murder.

Gustave Roeder, fifty-seven years old, of 322 East Fourteenth street, shot his wife, Mary, forty years old, in the right arm this afternoon. He then killed himself. Mrs. Roeder was taken to Bellevue Hospital, not seriously injured. Roeder was a real estate agent. Mrs. Roeder and her husband had been separated for two years. The husband formerly kept a saloon on Fulton street, Brooklyn, and his wife claims she was forced to leave him because of his drinking habits. Mrs. Roeder opened a boarding-house at 322 East Fourteenth street and prospered. Recently her mother died in Germany, leaving her $20,000. Her husband came to the house early this morning, demanding money. He said he needed $75, and unless he got it he would kill the whole family. Mrs. Roeder kept putting him off until 1:30 this afternoon, when she told him he could not have the money. Then he drew his revolver and shot her in the right arm. Rushing to the window he saw his son Otto, twelve years old, playing in the yard. Pointing the revolver at him he fired, but the shot went wild.

Then he turned the weapon on his own temple and fell dead. Another son, Edwin, sixteen years old, was upstairs and arrived on the scene as his father expired.

MRS. MAYBRICK SPEAKS.

In First Interview in Eleven Years She Praises Chief Justice Russell. LONDON, Aug. 21.—For the first time since her life sentence was imposed, Mrs. Florence Maybrick had a private interview with her husband, Dr. Clark Bell, of New York, at Attorney Prison today. A representative of the Associated Press, through the courtesy of the Home Office, was also granted an opportunity to talk to the prisoner. The only person up to the present who ever saw Mrs. Maybrick in person, she said to the Associated Press representative, "was the Chief Justice. When the Assizes were here, last February, Lord Russell came to the prison and asked to see me, as was his official right. When he was sitting to go he said: "Mrs. Maybrick, I am doing all in my power for your release. Whatever happens, remember this—that if there is one man in England who believes in your innocence, I am that man." "I fully appreciate and am glad of the chance to express my gratitude to the officials in Washington and to my friends throughout America, especially the ladies for what they are doing. It is that alone which has upheld me all these years. "All the officials here or at the Home Office can do to mitigate my prison life is done. They are generally kind but no one alive or free can know the weight of these dragging years. "What the result of the Bell's interview with Mrs. Maybrick may be cannot yet be made known. The recent United States memorial is still in the hands of the Home Secretary, Sir Matthew White Ridley.

Murdered Girl Laid to Rest in Lutheran Cemetery and Lincoln Price, Her Lover, Liberated in $1,500 Bail--Hot Hunt for Man in Blue.

Mystery followed thick and fast in the murder of Katie Scharn, the factory girl, this afternoon.

Frederick Scharn, the murdered girl's brother and Lincoln Price, her sweetheart, were taken from their cells and stood in line with twenty other young men about the same age.

Detectives then led into the police station C. Breckheimer, pawnbroker, 1993 Third avenue. He glanced up and down the line.

Then he walked straight up to young Scharn. Pointing a long, bony finger, the pawnbroker dramatically exclaimed:

"He is the man!"

The police refused to explain the significance of the identification. They took Scharn and Price to the Coroner.

Scharn was committed to the Tombs without bail. Price was released in $1,500 bonds.

The pawnbroker told an Evening World reporter that he identified Scharn as a young man who pawned a watch with him. The watch belonged to the murdered girl. A second watch belonging to her is missing.

WHO IS THE MAN IN BLUE?

THE MAN IN BLUE is being searched for throughout Greater New York by the police. It is believed he can solve the mystery of the murder of Katie Scharn, the factory girl.

He was with her in Bloomingdale's the afternoon before the murder and paid for the goods she purchased. This MAN IN BLUE probably knows who knocked the factory girl senseless with a hammer in her apartments on Second avenue and then strangled her to death.

Detectives believed they had struck an important clue when they found two gold rings in a Bowery pawnshop early this morning, which are supposed to have belonged to the murdered girl.

They took the rings to young Fred Scharn, her brother, who is detained, pending investigation at the Thirty-fifth street police station. He surprised the detectives by refusing to tell whether or not they were his sister's. "My lawyer has told me I mustn't say a word about the murder and I won't," was all he would say.

The police obtained from the pawnbroker a very good description of the man who pawned the rings. They are looking for him.

Although the police are searching for the man who pawned the rings they are also developing other clues. Druggist Tyler, who owns the building in which the murder was committed, is being very carefully investigated. His drug store and his home were searched by detectives at midnight.

Druggist Tyler this afternoon gave an exclusive interview to The Evening World, detailing his movements on the night of the murder.

The murdered girl's funeral was held this afternoon from the Morgue.

DRUGGIST TYLER'S STATEMENT.

(Dictated Exclusively to an Evening World Reporter.)

Druggist William H. Tyler, whose name was in the newspapers at the time of the Mamie Cunningham murder mystery of four years ago, and who is landlord of the house in which Katie Scharn lived and was murdered, made the following detailed statement of his movements on the night of the murder to a reporter of The Evening World, at 1 o'clock this afternoon: "I want to deny as emphatically as possible the insinuations that I know something of how this girl met her end.
